HARVARD DANCE CENTER

FALL '21 ARTIST-IN-RESIDENCE

Dancer, choreographer, and educator Nailah Randall-Bellinger is in residence at Harvard Dance Center creating a new work commissioned by the Harvard University Committee on the Arts (HUCA), and with support from Harvard Radcliffe Institute and the Presidential Initiative on Harvard and the Legacy of Slavery.

The work, titled Initiation– In Love Solidarity, is a choreographic narrative that explores the physical embodiment of the Middle Passage, and the resilience and evolving identity of women of the African diaspora. A film component of the work and live performance will be presented in various formats this fall. Randall-Bellinger will also be visiting TDM dance credit courses and the Hutchins Center Fellowship Program.

Fall '21 Events for Initiation– In Love Solidarity

- Live pop-up performance at the Barker Center Courtyard: Saturday, October 9, 3pm
- Film Screening and Conversation at Smith Campus Center: Thursday, October 21, 6pm
- Dance Center Showings: Live performance, Film, & Conversation: Saturday, November 13, 4pm & 7pm

STUDENT-LED DANCE GROUPS

The Dance Center supports 23 student-led dance groups, which represent a broad range of dance styles and traditions from all over the globe!

Student-led dance groups reserve studio spaces at the Dance Center for their classes and rehearsals and can apply for a one-week Dance Center residency. Dance staff offer support and mentorship throughout the year. Student-led Dance Group Leaders are regularly convened with the Dance Center staff for advisement, knowledge-sharing, fellowship, and professional development workshops.
